Family relationships are, perhaps, not strong as they were some years ago. In fact, today permanent relationships seem to be difficult for many people. As a result family life becomes unstable and often fractured.

Family unions are a way to retrieve this stability to build up relations more effectively. In fact, one often discovers that 'blood is thicker than water'.

To strengthen this relationship the Marattukalam Kudumbayogam is publishing a directory which certainly would help mutual contact and would strengthen family ties.

May this directory help many to keep contact with each other and to build up a good family community. Congratulations to those who have taken the initiation to publish this document.

I wish you all the best,

Archbishop Joseph Powathil
